Diabetes Teaching Center Opens

UCSF's School of Nursing, Family Health Care Department, announced the opening of the Diabetes Teaching Center on April 30. Individualized instruction by a nurse, physician, and dietitian team will be provided to diabetics and their families. This course of 30 hours of instruction will start every Monday at 1 p.m. and end on Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

The center is under the direction of Jeanne Hallburg, Family Health Care Department, and co-director in charge of medical supervision is Ralph W. Alexander, M.D. Peggy Huang, R.N., is the principal instructor. The program operates in cooperation with the UCSF Metabolic Research Unit and the Diabetes Clinic. The new teaching center is endorsed by the Northern California Affiliate of the American Diabetes Association and is partially supported by a $5,000 gift from General and Mrs. James E. Frank and by $2,000 from the Bank of America Foundation.

Referrals to the center are accepted from private physicians as well as clients themselves. The cost of the four-day program is $200, with exceptions based on need. For further information call 665-1010.

Children's Classes Held

Discovering mathematical relationships through games and puzzles, counting frogs and adding dinosaur eggs, plotting one's escape from rope handcuffs, and measuring trees in meters are some of the ways in which children's natural curiosity is engaged. This is the subject of a series of special classes held at UCSF for grade school children ages 5-12 after school and Saturday mornings in May and June. A second series will start in the summer.

Sponsored by the Lawrence Hall of Science, classes are taught by UC students. Registration fees range from $28 to $37 for Lawrence Hall members and $38 to $47 for nonmembers.

Spring courses are "Math for Girls," "Calculators for Kindergartners," "Puzzles and Patterns," and "Math for Fun."

Sponsored by the UCSF Department of Public Service Programs, registration information is available by calling 642-5132.

Regional Poison Center Starts

The S.F. Bay Area Regional Poison Center is offering 24-hour, seven-day-a-week poison information, consultation, and referral service to health care providers and the public. The Center is located in the Emergency Unit of the UCSF-affiliated SFGH Medical Center, part of the nationally acclaimed Trauma Center.

In S.F., the number to call to reach the Bay Area Regional Poison Center is 666-2845. The toll-free number available for calls made outside S.F. is 800-792-0720.

The Center is made possible through the collaboration of UCSF Schools of Pharmacy and Medicine and the S.F. Department of Public Health. Funding is provided, in part, from grants to UCSF through the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) of San Mateo, Alameda, Contra Costa, Lake, Mendocino, Humbolt, and Del Norte counties and from Title II Public Funds.

An Evening at the Dresden May 17

Join Chancellor and Mrs. Francis A. Sooy, the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary, and campus friends and alumni for "An Evening at the Dresden," Thursday, May 17, 6-8 p.m., at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. The exhibit features examples from five centuries of art collecting in the city of Dresden in the German Democratic Republic. Wine, cheese, and music will be provided.

Tax-deductible donations are $15 per person and will benefit the Pediatrics Special Care Unit, which the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary has designated as its special fund-raising project.

Tickets are available between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the Auxiliary Office, Room 180 B Moffitt Hospital. To obtain tickets by mail, make your check payable to the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary, Room 119, Moffitt Hospital, UC-San Francisco, 94143. For further information call 666-4906 or 666-3945.

Hippocrates Dedication May 10

A statue of Hippocrates that has been donated to the campus will be dedicated on Thursday, May 10, 2:30 p.m., in front of the Ambulatory Care Center. Master of ceremonies will be Chancellor Francis A. Sooy, M.D. Other speakers include former S.F. Mayor George Christopher and Senator Nicholas C. Petris, 9th District, Alameda County. The statue was donated by John Nicholas Pappas, an emigrant from Kiparisi, Lakonia, Greece, who has made S.F. his home since 1905, and his wife.

The statue was sculpted in Greece by Kostas N. Georgakas, who has made a number of Hippocrates statues donated to colleges and universities throughout the country. The statue at UCSF is made of solid white marble.

Positions Open at UCSF

The Personnel Department of UCSF announces a large number of unfilled positions on campus, on various skill levels including clerical and office positions. There also are a number of places open in the temporary, short-term "clerical pool" for those who do not wish a permanent position.

Anyone who would like to apply should contact the UCSF Personnel Department at Room U 12, UC-San Francisco, 94143.

Rosalind Russell Center Established

The establishment of "The Rosalind Russell Medical Research Center for Arthritis" of UCSF was announced last month.

The Center will integrate research programs at three locations affiliated with UCSF: the UCSF campus on Parnassus; the S.F. Veterans Administration Medical Center; and a new program to be established at SFGH Medical Center. In addition, it will serve as a focus for advances in patient care, teaching, and community service.

A special Congressional appropriation of almost one million dollars, which is being administered through the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism, and Digestive Diseases, will go toward remodeling and equipping space for a major component of the Center — the special "Rosalind Russell Arthritis Research Laboratory" at SFGH. Subsequent support will come from funds raised in memory of Rosalind Russell and from various research grants and contracts.

In addition to the Research Lab at SFGH, the Arthritis Clinics in the Ambulatory Care Center, UCSF, will be renamed the "Rosalind Russell Arthritis Clinics." UCSF was selected in national competition as the home of this important endeavor, because of its eminence in the fields of research, patient care, teaching, and community programs in arthritis and rheumatoid diseases.

Exploratorium Exhibits

"Imaging the Body: From X-rays to Ultrasound" is the special May exhibit at the Exploratorium. A number of departments and faculty members from UCSF are participating in this series of month-long exhibits, part of an effort to bring the public firsthand experience and understanding of the field of health technology. During May, visitors will be able to learn how computer reads images inside the body and puts together cross-sections of the brain and body through CT "Computerized Tomography" Scanning.

On Saturday, May 12, 2-3 p.m., David C. Price, associate professor, Radiology and Medicine, will speak on "Nuclear Medicine," and on Sunday, May 13, 1-5 p.m., Roy A. Filly, associate professor, Radiology, will answer questions about "Ultrasound." Lawrence Crooks, assistant professor, Radiology, will talk on "Imaging with Magnetic Fields," on Saturday, May 26. And on Sunday, May 27, at 1 p.m., Leon Kaufman, professor, Physics, will talk on "Imaging Gamma Rays from the Human Body."

May marks the fifth in a series of six exhibits. The last exhibit in June will be "Technology in Treatment: Cancer Therapy." Visitors of all ages are invited to attend this free series.

The Exploratorium, at 3601 Lyon Street, is open Saturdays and Sundays, 1-5 p.m. For further information call 563-7337.

"Sexuality & Disability": May 18-20

The rarely discussed and poorly understood sexual problems of persons with disabilities such as cerebral palsy and arthritis are the focus of a UCSF conference titled "Sexuality and Disability: A National Symposium." It will be held at the S.F. Miyako Hotel, Friday, May 18, to Sunday, May 20.

Discussions will include the implications for sexuality of spinal cord injury, cerebral palsy, visual and hearing impairments, and various other medical conditions; and sociosexual counseling and education. For further information call 666-2894.
